BRIEF ABSTRACT OF LETTER.

NOTES AND ORDERS.

GPB—30,000—3-4-07.

Submitted to His Highness.

I submit for approval the draft of an order regarding the transfer of some of the head-quarter offices to Mysore, and requesting the Chief Engineer to submit the necessary plans and estimates. The selection of offices has been made on the principle that all the Secretariat officers should have their headquarters at Bangalore, only the Departments which could be shifted to Mysore without public inconvenience being selected.

2. It is a question whether the Revenue Commissioner's Office and the Chief Court may not, without disadvantage, be also shifted to Mysore. The former is now located in a highly rented building. The latter is located in the Public Office buildings and so much cramped for space that plans and estimates for constructing a new building for housing all the Law Courts at Bangalore are under preparation.

16th April 1910.

My dear Sir,

His Highness desires me to return File No.1032 dated 8-4-10. He is in favour of the eventual transfer to Mysore of all the offices named in the margin of the draft order, except those of the Military Secretary and the Senior Surgeon and Sanitary Commissioner. As regards the latter he would like Col.Smyth to be consulted before orders are passed. There may be professional reasons for retaining his office at Bangalore for the present. The Military Secretary may have his head-quarters office at Bangalore and move it to Mysore whenever His Highness is at the Capital. His Highness is also in favour of moving the Revenue Commissioner's office to Mysore. As for the Chief Court, it is advisable to consult the Chief Judge before arriving at any opinion. The opinion of the Bar and the litigant public should also be ascertained as far as possible on a question of this nature. In transferring Public Offices to Mysore, the question of providing suitable House accommodation for the offices concerned should not be lost sight of. There are, it is believed, few, if any, vacant Bungalows in Mysore. His Highness thinks that the Muzrai Department, though attached to the Secretariat, may also with advantage be transferred to Mysore.

Yours sincerely,

My dear Sir,

Bangalore, 19th April 10. 190

My dear Dewan,

Your D.O.No. 862, dated, 17th April 1910 - I think the Medical and Sanitary Departments can quite well be administered from the Capital, and after considering the matter carefully - can see no valid objection to the offices being eventually transferred to Mysore. Mysore is of course not so central as Bangalore, involving as it does an extra days journey when tours to the north are contemplated, and also an extra days journey for the officials that that frequently visit the head of these Departments. But I think the advantage of being at the seat of Government would out-weigh these inconveniences.- I of course, understand that Government would also be permanently transferred to Mysore; but if this is not to be so then the transfer of Medical and Sanitary Departments to Mysore would mean Cumbrath inconvenience without a single redeeming advantage.

16 The Chief Judge and the Senior Surgeon were consulted on the question of transferring to Mysore the Chief Court and the offices of the Senior Surgeon and Sanitary Commissioner respectively; and I submit for information the replies received from them. The Chief Judge is of opinion that where the Government is there the Chief Court should be also, and that both should be located at Mysore. The Senior Surgeon's opinion is similar. Although there are certain inconveniences in transferring his offices to Mysore, he thinks that the advantage of being at the seat of Government (which he presumes would be permanently transferred to Mysore) would out-weigh these inconveniences. But if Mysore is not to be the seat of the Government, he thinks that "the transfer of the Medical and Sanitary Departments to Mysore would mean considerable inconvenience without a single redeeming advantage".

Mysore
8 June 1910

My dear Sir,

16 With reference to the order about the transfer of certain Government Offices to Mysore, I enclose a statement which shows that 14 Officers, 130 Clerks & 133 peons will have to remove themselves from Bangalore to Mysore. The question has not (as far as I see) been considered as affecting the interests of these 277 men and their families.

Since the building of the extensions in Bangibosa, most of these people (including the menial servants) have probably built houses for themselves, often at great cost and in almost all cases, exhausting all their resources and contracting debts. Where they have not built for themselves, they have been occupying buildings belonging to others, which will be vacated when they depart.

19b

The extensions in Bangalore are almost wholly due to buildings constructed by government officials. If more than 200 houses are at most simultaneously vacated, it will be a great setback to the Bangalore Extensions, which are probably unique in India for success and popularity. It is inevitable that house property will greatly deteriorate in value. The persons directly affected will have to dispose of their houses at a great loss; and when they begin to build in Mysore, they will find the cost enormously increased, a fact that item by reason of a vastly extended demand for building materials and labour. It seems to be but just that Government should go to their aid liberally, and if it is a question whether it can afford to do so, or may properly incur expenditure of public money for the purpose. The indirect loss to others in Bangalore by deterioration of property values is by no means an insignificant item, and though perhaps Government is under no moral obligation to indemnify them,

Serial No.

19d

it ought to be counted as against the indirect benefit gained by Mysore by the process.

18 My object in mentioning this is to show that while it is quite right that Mysore City should be improved, it is equally important that Government should guard against the deterioration of Bangalore. The latter has more vitality in itself and responds much more readily to adventitious stimulation given by Government measures. If the work of removal is carried on slowly and gradually, it is likely that the effects may be barely perceivable 17 I do not suppose that Government will agree with the Chief Judge and the Senior Surgeon about removal of the head quarters of Government wholly to Ukpoba. If that is to be done, the matter will have to be Considered from various points of view aspects. As it is, the removal of important offices like the Revenue Commissioner's is likely to inconvenience people greatly unless some new railway lines are opened, & that costs a great deal more money than we shall be able to find, soon.

20 I find that I get more work from this Secretary than from any other branch. If the Secretary is sent to Mysore, I am sure there will be some delay in the despatch of business, and it may perhaps become necessary to relieve him of the functions of an Under Secretary.

2 In connection with the Education Office, I do not know if the advantage of being in Bangalore in nearer touch with centres of learning like the Madras University, Tata's Institute, the large Central College &c has been properly appreciated.

2 Trusting that I shall not be considered presumptuous in giving my views unasked, I am

A number of the headquarter offices in Bangalore are now located in rented buildings which, having been originally designed as dwelling houses, are quite unsuited for use as offices for the transaction of public business. The inconvenience of this is so great that the construction of suitable buildings for these offices cannot any longer be postponed. Besides, the saving that would be effected on account of rent now paid for those offices will, it may be expected, go far towards giving a satisfactory return on the capital cost of the buildings to be constructed.
